The Luther E Warren Peace Path is a wonderful trail that runs through the heart of town. It is easily accessible from the south side of the CMH parking lot. The hospital is a short walk away, so if you happen to be visiting someone at the hospital or work, consider taking a break with a walk on the trail. It is easily accessible and has a cafeteria that serves healthy meals. Finally, if you enjoy exploring the outdoors on a wheelchair, scooters and strollers are available. The trail is close to downtown, making it convenient for visitors and locals alike. It is almost 2 miles long and has a tree cover that makes it the "coolest" trail in town. The trail is almost entirely shaded, making it a great spot for a picnic or just a relaxing stroll. This trail is fabulous and definitely peaceful. In the summer, you can also see a variety of wildlife, deer and many birds from this trail. If you happen to be visiting the Margery Hale Bridge from the hospital or work, consider this trail as a great option to explore the area. The trailhead is just a short walk from the historic General Denver Hotel, Jen's Deli (inside the hotel), and goes two blocks to Main Street and Historic Downtown. From there, you can explore a variety of restaurants and B&Bs (turn north from the Mulberry Street trailhead). The Peace Path is part of the OSIP II, Aerial Photography was flown in the Spring of 2012 as part of the OSIP II Ohio Statewide Imagery Program.
